Charlotte Madison never wanted to get married, yet here she is on a train, headed west to be the bride to a man she has never met. And to make matters worse, she has to greet this strange man with a surprise—an abandoned baby girl left behind in Charlotte's care. Now she has not only a new marriage to deal with, but also a baby she is not prepared for. Lee Hevelom is a kind man, but he did not expect a baby to accompany his new wife. Nor did he expect Charlotte to resent him and his advice so much. Is it possible that he has made a mistake, and that Charlotte will not be able to find a way to accept him? But Lee is carrying his own burdens, and his heart is hard to reach—which also makes it hard for him to reach out. Can a stubborn bride and a heart-sick farmer find their way to happiness after all? Perhaps, with a little help from the tiniest new member of the family.
